

LIFE LOVES

NEED

If you've ever experienced a utensil drawer in "commando" mode, you've known true anarchy. Compartmento's chic dividers (from $385) are made from premium silicone in a range of mix-and-match colours; compartmento.com.au.

WANT

Designed by Melburnians in Amsterdam, Gessen's glossy glass plates ($60-$80) in neutrals and neons are a tablescaper's dream, their translucent tops and coloured undersides giving them a distinctive molten quality. Available via saloon.store.

THE ANORAK

From Loewe to Levi's, the sporty windbreaker is having a moment. We love Uniqlo's blouson jacket.

THE DUTCH METHOD

Apparently, sleeping with the blinds and curtains open helps you wake up refreshed and improves sleep quality, too.

COLONEL MUSTARD

The street-style set are loving head-to-toe ochre, burnt honey and other Keen's-inspired shades.

ups & downs

THE BREAK-UP REGISTRY

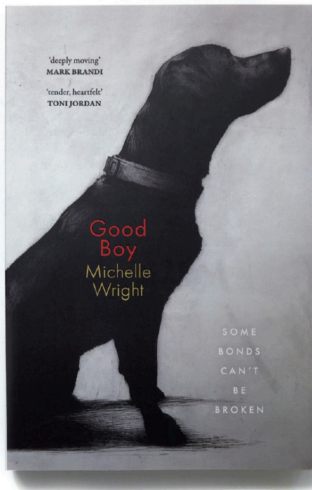

Some are requesting gifts to mark the end of a relationship and procure items for a "fresh start".

SPAM

Spam sushi, anyone? TikTok's discovered tinned meat and none of us are better off for it.

CIGARETTES

Despite Kylie Jenner lighting up on the cover of Vanity Fair, smoking is not cool, people.

READ

In Michelle Wright's novel Good Boy (Allen & Unwin, $35), Cookie is nearing the end of a 20-year prison sentence when he joins a program to rehabilitate unwanted dogs and builds a life-changing bond with an unruly mutt.

EAT

Bar Lourinhã is celebrating its 20th year in the CBD, and no wonder – it reliably serves up delicious Iberian-inspired dishes such as these roasted sardines with bottarga ($38). 37 Little Collins Street; barlourinha.com.au.
